

NHIA Home Infusion Payor Summit

November 2, 2022 | Dallas, TX

The National Home Infusion Association (NHIA) is pleased to hold a one-day summit exclusively for leaders from commercial payors. The summit provides education, describes current trends, and aims to help payors leverage infusion services to lower the total cost of care.

This interactive meeting will benefit leaders from commercial payors with responsibilities for benefit structure, network decisions, value-based programing, and specialty infusion policy. Attendees will hear from home and specialty infusion experts and executives about opportunities and challenges facing the industry today and into the future.

There is no fee to attend, however attendees are responsible for their own travel arrangements and expenses. Breakfast and lunch are provided for meeting attendees. Space is limited and reserved on a first come first served basis.

AGENDA

November 1, 2022

5:00pm | Welcome Reception

Join NHIA leadership and payor executives for an elegant networking reception upon arrival in Dallas.

November 2, 2022

7:30am | Networking Breakfast

We will kick off the morning with a full breakfast and ample time to network.

8:30am | Welcome

Introductions, meeting objectives, anti-trust rules

9:00am | Trends in Infusion Therapy

During the global pandemic many patients became aware of home-based care options for a wide range of services, including infusion. This session will discuss how the pandemic changed home infusion utilization, exposed vulnerabilities, and opened the door for new ways of delivering care while improving outcomes.

9:45am | Leveraging Home Infusion to Lower Total Cost of Care

Today's infusion providers offer a wide range of professional services that differentiate them from any other type of pharmacy. NHIA will summarize the service expectations payors should have of provider in their infusion networks and how to leverage these unique capabilities to lower the total cost of care.

10:30am | Break

10:45am | Infusion CEO Panel Discussion and Q&A

This moderated panel session of senior executives and CEO's of home infusion's largest organizations provides a window into the future direction of the industry. Panelists will share their experience navigating the pandemic, supply chain disruptions, staffing shortages, and why they are optimistic about the future of infusion.

Home Infusion Payor Summit

November 2, 2022 | Dallas, TX

November 2, 2022

11:30am | Medicare and Home Infusion: The Confusing Part B Home Infusion Therapy Services Benefit and Part D Coverage Gap

Despite creating a home infusion therapy services benefit with the passage of 21st Century Cures in 2016, Medicare remains the only major payor in the U.S. to not offer beneficiaries straight-forward access to home infusion. This session explains why the Part B HIT benefit is failing to attract providers and how commercial plans can avoid the same pitfalls while adding value for Medicare Advantage enrollees.

12:30pm | Networking Lunch

Buffet lunch and networking time.

1:15pm | Reducing the Use of Not Otherwise Classified Codes

Since the HIPAA compliant S-codes adopted in 2002 established a per day payment bundle for home infusion services, equipment, and supplies, the number of specialty infusions delivered at home has grown exponentially. This session reviews proposals to reduce the use of not-otherwise-classified codes.

2:00pm | Value Based Care Opportunities in Home Infusion

The infusion industry is primed for value-based payment opportunities. NHIA's standardized definitions for patient outcome metrics provide the foundation for participation in value-based programs. This session will offer a vision for how value-based care could be integrated into a home infusion benefit.

2:45pm | Break

3:00pm | Health System Infusion Programs

Attendees will hear from leaders of major health system programs about how hospitals are leveraging home and specialty infusion, the role of 340B, and how hospital at home programs intersect with home infusion.

4:00pm | Wrap Up, Action Items, Program Evaluations

How do we apply this information in a way that is beneficial to payors, providers and patients?

4:30pm | Adjourn
